

THE WOMAN AND THE DRAGON

It is said that in northern China, a large lake, once lived a Drago. It was majestic and beautiful and her skin gleaming blue and green as the lake, reflecting the sunlight all around. But the locals he was afraid and then he blew from his nostrils a dense fog that enveloped everything making it disappear.

A Girl of the travelers who went there, heard the dragon wanted to meet him. Fear forwarded by the people was great but felt a strength within himself that led to encounter the creature that everyone feared.

Walking on the shore of the lake with his legs trembling, he heard a voice. Did not understand where it came from, whether from "inside" or "out", but it was a friendly voice.

"Do not be afraid ... the Dragon is not bad ... just reflects the fear of people. It 'the same fear that makes everything disappear! "

The Girl with the heart in throat, asked, "Who are you? "

Then the lake rose with a loud bang and the Dragon appeared in all its glory. The Girl was terrified to escape, but the friendly voice reassured: "Do not be afraid of me, not bad. I represent what you feel in your heart. Where can you turn fear into love, you have gifts in exchange for indescribable beauty. Now I greet you, but one day we will meet again. "

The Girl, taken her by surprise, felt the love take the place of fear, and took courage, stretched his hand to caress the Dragon who disappeared slipping into the water.

Seven years passed and the Girl traveling far and wide and up and down, there was a woman. One day he found himself on the shore of the lake where he had met the creature that had opened the heart and had never forgotten. While he played in forming circles with their hands, they approached a young man, beautiful as the sun, dressed in green and blue as the colors of the lake. They looked into the eyes and understood. "Your love has released me," said taking the hand and flew together towards new worlds, discovering endless landscapes of indescribable beauty.